

Best Hair Loss Solution For 1 To 5 Stages Of Baldness Grade

Stage 1
Hair loss at the top of the head (vertex) or at the hairline is barely or unnoticeable

Stage 2
Some hairline recession is starting to become noticeable around the temples – sometimes referred to as an adult or mature hairline.

Stage 3
Hair loss starts to become very noticeable at the temples, creating a cui-de-sac look.

Stage 4
Hairline has significantly receded, hair at vertex begins to thin and disappear. The middle part of the hair still separates both areas of hair loss

Stage 5
Balding at the vertex and receding hairline have progressed even further than in Stage 4. Stretch of hair across the middle of the scalp becomes narrower

Men's Hair Loss Pattern

Stage 1 baldness is when you start to notice a bit of hair loss around your temples. It's not too obvious to others, but you might see your hairline receding a little. It's the earliest stage of hair loss

Stage 2 baldness is a bit more noticeable than Grade 1. You'll see more hair loss at your temples, creating a slight "V" shape in your hairline. It's still early in the balding process.

Stage 3 baldness is when hair loss becomes more evident, with a deeper "V" shape forming at the temples and thinning at the crown of the head. At this stage, bald patches may start to become noticeable.

Stage 4 baldness is characterized by significant hair loss, with a prominent "M" shape forming at the hairline and extensive thinning at the crown of the head. Bald patches become more pronounced, and there may be minimal hair remaining on the top of the scalp.

Stage 5 baldness is an advanced stage of hair loss where there is extensive balding on the top of the scalp, with only a narrow band of hair remaining around the sides and back. The "M" shape at the hairline becomes more pronounced, and bald patches are highly visible.
